EPITOPIC provides rapid fingerprinting of antibody epitopes at amino acid resolution. Almost 10 years of research on optimizing a statistical approach to peptide phage display allows to reveal details of antibody epitopes including structural details within a few weeks time.

Head Ligand Development Unit

Fraunhofer Institute for Cell Therapy and Immunology

Oct 2009 - Present · 15 yrs 1 mo

We are focussed on library design and selection of ligands from phage libraries applying NGS and in silico ligand discovery. We develop novel applications for ligands in particular peptides. Our main application areas are cell specific ligands as well as studies of the immune response in the context auto immune disease, allergies and infections.
