DECISION
Granting Request for Rehearing
37 C.F.R. § 42.71(d)

I. INTRODUCTION

On November 7, 2025, the Board issued a Decision denying institution of inter partes review of claims 1–12 of U.S. Patent No. 11,470,595 B2 (Ex. 1001, “the ’595 patent”). Paper 12 (“Decision”). On December 8, 2025, Petitioner timely filed a Request for Rehearing of the Decision. Paper 13 (“Request”).

For the reasons provided below, we grant Petitioner’s Request and vacate the Decision denying institution.<sup>1</sup>

II. STANDARD FOR REHEARING

A request for rehearing “must specifically identify all matters the party believes the Board misapprehended or overlooked, and the place where each matter was previously addressed in a motion, an opposition, a reply, or a sur-reply.” 37 C.F.R. § 42.71(d). “The burden of showing a decision should be modified lies with the party challenging the decision.” Id.

III. BACKGROUND

In the Petition filed May 13, 2025, “Petitioner submits that no formal claim constructions are necessary.” Paper 2, 3. Petitioner did not discuss its position on claim construction in district court. See id.

In its Preliminary Response filed September 16, 2025, Patent Owner argues that institution should be denied because of “Petitioner’s adoption of inconsistent claim construction arguments between its district court position and its Petition.” Paper 10, 9–10. The Preliminary Response provides:

<sup>1</sup> Our Decision discusses the relevant technology, the challenged claims, the asserted grounds, and provides background regarding the dispute between the parties. We therefore only provide details with particular relevance to the Request.

“Petitioner submits that no formal claim constructions are necessary....” Petition at 3. Despite this, Petitioner identified terms for construction in the district court. Recently, in district court, however, Petitioner has identified several terms in the ’595 Patent for construction, including the terms “explicitly indicated” and “the total bandwidth information”—which appear in both independent Claims 1 and 7. Petitioner contends that these terms are indefinite under 35 U.S.C. § 112. See Ex. 2015 at 1 (correspondence from Petitioner’s trial counsel identifying indefiniteness position for the ’595 Patent).

Id. at. 8–9. Claims 1 and 7 of the ’595 patent are the only two independent claims of the ’595 patent. Patent Owner further states that “Petitioner has offered no explanation, in this inter partes review or in the district court litigation, why it has adopted inconsistent claim construction positions between the two proceedings.” Id. at 9.

As indicated in the above quote from the Preliminary Response, Exhibit 2015 is an email from Petitioner’s trial counsel relating to the district court litigation between the parties in which Petitioner is a defendant.

Exhibit 2015 provides:

[W]e identify the terms identified in Defendants PR 4-1 disclosure that Defendants contend should be found indefinite.

11,470,595

- “explicitly indicated” (claims 1, 7)
- “the total bandwidth information” (claim 7)
- “a center 26-tone resource unit” (claims 3, 9)
- “the center 26-tone resource unit” (claims 4, 10)

Ex. 2015, 1.

On November 3, 2025, the Director of the Office issued a precedential decision in Revvo Technologies, Inc. v. Cerebrum Sensor Technologies, Inc., IPR2025-00632, Paper 20 (Nov. 3, 2025 (“Revvo”)).<sup>2</sup> Revvo provides that “when a petitioner takes alternative positions [on claim construction] before the Board and a district court, that petitioner should, at a minimum, explain why alternative positions are warranted.” Revvo at 3–4.

On November 5, 2025, the Director of the Office issued an informative decision in Tesla, Inc. v. Intellectual Ventures II LLC, IPR2025-00340, Paper 18 (Nov. 5, 2025) (“Tesla”). Tesla provides that: “Allowing a petitioner to advance a claim construction before the Board when that petitioner has made inconsistent indefiniteness arguments in district court fails to further, but instead detracts from, the Office’s goal of ‘providing greater predictability and certainty in the patent system.’” Id. at 4 (citing Revvo at 4–5). Tesla further provides that when a petitioner raises inconsistent invalidity challenges in two forums, “that petitioner is required to explain why those different positions are warranted.” Id. at 3 (citing Revvo at 3–5).

Our Decision was based on our understanding that “Petitioner takes alternative positions on claim construction before the Board and a district court, but fails to explain why alternative positions are warranted.” Decision 6. “Therefore, in accordance with Revvo and Tesla, we den[ied] institution.” Id.

IV. ANALYSIS

Petitioner requests rehearing of our Decision denying institution based on Petitioner taking inconsistent claim construction positions in this proceeding and in district court. Specifically, Petitioner argues:

[T]he Board misapprehended Petitioner’s district court claim construction positions. In district court, Petitioner has unequivocally and irrevocably contended that no terms of U.S. Patent No. 11,470,595 (“the ’595 Patent”) are indefinite or require construction. With this position, Petitioner’s PTAB and district court claim constructions are perfectly aligned and, in fact, identical. Because Petitioner’s PTAB and district court claim constructions are consistent, the Board’s institution decision rested on misapprehension of an inconsistency that does not exist.

The Board also overlooked or misapprehended the preliminary nature of the evidence it relied upon in finding inconsistency. In reaching its decision, the Board did not review any claim construction filing made in district court. Instead, the Board based its decision exclusively on an email exchange between counsel related to “Defendants’ P.R. 4-1 Exchange of Proposed Terms.” Ex. 2015. The P.R. 4-1 deadline is merely a deadline to “Exchange Proposed Claim Terms” and comes before even the P.R. 4-2 deadline to “Exchange Preliminary Claim Constructions.” Ex. 2001, 5. Without doubt, the evidence relied on in the institution decision was not Petitioner’s final position on claim construction; it came before preliminary claim constructions were even exchanged and did not have any explanation of why any claim term should be construed in any particular way. By denying institution based on preliminary—and ultimately, premature—evidence, the Board failed to consider Petitioner’s position on claim construction, overlooking or misapprehending the preliminary nature of the evidence on which it relied.

In the co-pending district court litigation, Petitioner filed its opening claim construction brief on November 18, 2025. In that brief, Petitioner, unequivocally and irrevocably, took the position that no constructions were necessary for the '595 Patent. Petitioner did not argue indefiniteness for any term. Nor did Petitioner argue that any term required construction. For these reasons, Petitioner's claim construction position in district court is identical to its claim construction position here. Paper 2 (Petition), 3. To avoid any doubt, Petitioner stipulates that it will not argue indefiniteness for any term of the '595 Patent and will not pursue any formal constructions for the '595 Patent in co-pending litigation. Thus, Petitioner's claim construction positions before the district court and the PTAB are identical.

Request 1–2, 4 (footnote omitted). It appears that we did misapprehend Petitioner's claim construction position in district court. In reliance upon Petitioner's representation that it has not, and will not, argue for inconsistent claim construction in district court, we determine that it is appropriate for us to grant the Request and vacate our Decision denying institution.

We will consider the merits of the Petition and the counter arguments of the Patent Owner in the Preliminary Response and issue a decision on whether to grant institution on the merits in due course.

V. ORDER

For the foregoing reasons, it is ORDERED that the Petitioner's Request for Rehearing (Paper 13) is granted;

FURTHER ORDERED that the Decision Denying Institution of Inter Partes Review (Paper 12) is vacated; and FURTHER ORDERED that a decision on whether to institute inter partes review will be entered in due course.
