Motion to Dismiss - Failure to State a Claim (FRCP 12(b)(6)) Denied

Unpatentable Subject Matter (35 USC § 101)
 L Patent Ineligible Subject Matter
 L Abstract Idea

The court denied defendants' motion to dismiss on the ground that plaintiff's descriptor file patents encompassed unpatentable subject matter and found that the asserted claims were not directed to an abstract idea. "Both Patents identify a specific problem in the existing art—most significantly, the 'tracking' problems when streaming corresponding media in diverging formats, such as an eBook and derivative audiobook—and proposes the descriptor file as a specific, concrete solution to the problem. The descriptor file is likewise no abstract thing; it communicates between two otherwise incongruous streams, by identifying, selecting, and storing time offsets. Such an invention is far from the abstract idea prohibited by case law, and is clearly a concrete improvement over the state of the art."

 L Pleadings
 L Sufficiency of Pleadings

Invalidity
 L Unpatentable Subject Matter (35 USC § 101)
 L Inventive Concept

The court denied defendants' motion to dismiss on the ground that plaintiff's digital content streaming patent encompassed unpatentable subject matter and found that the asserted claims did not lack an inventive concept. "After setting aside the abstract portions of the disclosed method, one aspect of the '488 Patent remains: the use of segmented digital media streams. Based on the language of the claim, the use of the abstract idea in conjunction with segmented streams could plausibly constitute an inventive element, since the disclosed method is only able to constantly monitor and redirect its streaming sources because of the segmented nature of the streams. The '488 Patent specification further elucidates the inventiveness of the segmented streaming, asserting that the instant invention obviates issues associated with traditional, non-segmented streaming, namely, slow delivery and difficulty tracking progress."

Motion to Dismiss - Improper Venue (FRCP 12(b)(3)) Granted

Venue
 L Venue Rules for Patent Infringement (TC Heartland)
 L Regular and Established Place of Business

The court granted defendants' motion to dismiss plaintiff's patent infringement claims against one defendant for improper venue and determined that the defendant did not have a regular and established place of business in the forum based on an Amazon Web Services datacenter. "Applying [In re Google LLC, 949 F.3d 1338 (Fed. Cir. 2020)] to the instant case, the Court finds that while [Defendant's] use of the servers at the AWS datacenter likely qualifies as having a 'physical place,' the datacenter does not constitute a 'regular and established place of business.' Plaintiff argues that the AWS datacenter establishes venue as to [Defendant] because it is staffed by agents who 'install, host, operate, and maintain [Defendant's] Northern-Virginia-based servers.' However, [Defendant] is not in the business of server installation, operation, or maintenance—it is in the business of distributing audiobooks. Thus, the agents staffing the AWS datacenter do not perform [Defendant's] 'conduct of business' within the meaning of § 1400(b)."

Motion to Dismiss - Improper Venue (FRCP 12(b)(3)) Granted

District Court Procedural Issues
 L Venue
 L Corporate Relations and Jurisdiction/Venue

Venue
 L Venue Rules for Patent Infringement (TC Heartland)
 L Regular and Established Place of Business

The court granted one defendant's motion to dismiss plaintiff's patent infringement claims for improper venue and determined that the defendant did not have a regular and established place of business in the forum based on an alter ego theory. "Plaintiff notes that [Defendant] and [co-Defendant] share some employees, jointly promote their businesses, and that [co-Defendant] includes [Defendant's] revenue in its annual disclosures. Notably, Plaintiff does not contend that [co-Defendant] and [Defendant's] connectedness constitutes any sort of 'injustice or fundamental unfairness.' Based on this absence alone, the Court is barred from finding that [Defendant] is [co-Defendant's] alter ego. Beyond this critical absence, however, Plaintiff alleges only two factors from the Fourth Circuit's alter ego test: overlap in personnel and intermingling of funds. Defined by just those factors, [Defendant's] relationship with [co-Defendant] falls far short of the extraordinary circumstances required to disregard corporate separateness."

Motion to Transfer for Improper Venue (28 USC § 1406(a)) Denied

District Court Procedural Issues
 L Venue
 L Transfer in Lieu of Dismissal

District Court Procedural Issues
 L Venue
 L Venue Rules for Patent Infringement (TC Heartland)

After determining that venue was improper as to one defendant, the court dismissed instead of transferring. "Defendants ask that the Court transfer the portion of the present dispute comprising Plaintiff's claims against [the single Defendant] to the District of New Jersey. However, neither party fully addresses the propriety of the District of New Jersey under 28 U.S.C. § 1400(b). . . . Given the parties' joint failure to establish an alternative venue as to [Defendant], the Court cannot say that the 'interests of justice' support transferring to the District of New Jersey, as it risks transferring to an equally inappropriate venue. Further, the Court notes that Plaintiff spends significant ink describing the inconvenience posed by transferring the dispute against [Defendant] to the District of New Jersey and arguing that it 'taints Plaintiff's right to choice of forum.' While Plaintiff likely did not intend it to, this argument supports dismissal, as doing so would allow Plaintiff to refile in the appropriate, convenient forum of its choosing."

| Motion for Relief from Protective Order | | | Denied |
| Confidentiality L Protective Orders Preserving Confidentiality L Prosecution/Acquisition Bar | | The court denied defendants' motion to supplement the protective order to impose a prosecution bar. "Plaintiff clarifies that, notwithstanding Defendants' implication that Plaintiff's counsel performs patent acquisition and prosecution for Plaintiff, 'counsel in this action has never represented, and almost certainly never will represent Plaintiff in prosecuting patents or in acquiring patents or licenses.' In other words, the only basis for a patent prosecution bar identified by Defendants is wholly unfounded by the factual reality of Plaintiff's relationship with its counsel." | |
| Motion for Relief from Protective Order | | | Denied |
| Confidentiality L Protective Orders Preserving Confidentiality L Enforcing Protective Orders Outside Litigation | | The court denied defendants' motion to supplement the protective order to add an export-control provision. "[Defendants seek] an additional export-control provision that would totally prohibit the viewing of confidential documents outside the United States. . . . At first blush, Defendants' request appears reasonable; however, two critical realities undercut its logic. First, as Plaintiff identifies in its Opposition, extraterritorial viewing of confidential documents may occasionally be necessary in this case, since Plaintiff is located in Canada. Second, the existing Protective Order in this matter already provides that, 'absent agreement, Protected Material subject to export control restrictions may not be exported outside the United States or released to any foreign national.' Beyond Plaintiff's occasional viewing of discovery materials in Canada, Defendants do not articulate any particularized risk that confidential information may be exported or viewed in foreign nations during the course of this litigation." | |
| May. 22, 2025 | 92 | ORDER that the Court GRANTS the Motion (ECF No. 90), nunc pro tunc. The parties' proposed modified schedule is hereby ADOPTED, as follows: Plaintiff SHALL serve its rebuttal expert claim construction declaration on or before June 18, 2025; Defendants SHALL serve their reply expert claim construction declaration on or before July 3, 2025; The parties SHALL conclude expert claim construction depositions on or before July 11, 2025; The parties SHALL file opening claim construction briefs on or before July 31, 2025; and The parties shall file responsive claim construction briefs on or before August 28, 2025. In addition to the foregoing, the Court finds that the new briefing schedule necessitates a continuance of the Markman hearing, currently set for October 8, 2025. Thus, the Court hereby RESETS the Markman hearing for November 12, 2025, at 10:00 a.m. It is so ORDERED. Signed by District Judge Roderick C. Young on 5/22/2025.
