

REMARKS

Claims 1 to 16, 18 to 28, 32, 33, 35 to 42, 44 to 51, and 53 to 62 were pending in the Subject Application. Of the pending claims, Claims 20 to 27 and 54 to 62 were withdrawn in a previous restriction requirement and Claims 1 to 16, 18, 19, 28, 32, 33, 35 to 42, 44 to 51, and 53 to 62 were rejected in the Office Action.

In this response, Applicants have amended the claims such that Claims 1 to 15, 28, 32, 33, 35 to 42, and 44 to 53.

Initially, Applicants wish to thank Examiner James Dolak and Examiner Dolak's supervisor, J. Allen Shiver for participating in a personal interview with Applicant's representative, Bernard Pike. The interview was conducted in the USPTO offices on Monday, October 28, 2013 at 1:30 PM. In the interview, the participants review a commercial embodiment of the invention, reviewed and discussed the prior art, US Patent No. 7,677,585 (Rohl), US Patent No. 7,475,900 (Cheng) and their combination, differences between the commercial embodiment and the prior art, discussed the differences between claims as submitted in the Supplemental Amendment, and resolved issues of patentability. The examiners requested replacing the term "reversibly" with the term "removably" though each was meant to mean the same concept. The term "removably connected" means that the attachment member may be connected to the stroller frame then subsequently removed and that the seat may be connected to the attachment member then subsequently removed.

The Applicant also discussed secondary considerations including the awards given to Applicant based upon the commercial embodiment of the invention. In the interview, the examiner reconsidered the drawing amendments and removed the objection.

The participants agreed in the interview that adding the limitation that the seat attachment is removably connected to the stroller and removably connected to the stroller seat distinguishes the claimed invention from the prior art of record.

Claim Rejections

The claims of the Subject Application have been rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 102 or 35 U.S.C. §103 based upon a US Patent No. 7,677,585 (Rohl), US Patent No. 7,475,900 (Cheng), or a combinations thereof.

Neither Rohl nor Cheng describe a seat attachment for a stroller comprising two separate attachment frame members that is capable of being removably connected to a stroller and removably connected to a stroller seat. The attachment member simplifies the stroller of Cheng and allows use of the stroller as a single stroller then easily and conveniently converted to a double stroller. Cheng is permanently a double stroller with two seat connectors permanently connected to the stroller frame. The Subject Application comprises three independent claims, Claims 1, 28 and 35.

Claim 1 has been amended to claim a seat attachment comprising, among other things, left and right attachment frame members comprising a connector portion capable of removably connecting to a stroller frame and a seat support element removably connecting a seat in either a forward or backward position.

Claim 28 claims a stroller comprising, among other things, two attachment portions connected to the frame adjacent to the front wheels, wherein two attachment portions are capable of removably receiving and supporting a seat attachment member, wherein each of the seat attachment members comprises a connector portion for removably connecting to the attachment portion and a seat support element for removably connecting a stroller seat between the seat attachment members.

Finally, Claim 35 claims a stroller, comprising, among other things, a first stroller seat reversibly and removably connected to a stroller frame having a left front wheel and a right front wheel and a seat attachment for converting the stroller into a double stroller, the seat attachment comprising a connector portion capable of removably connecting to an attachment portion above a front wheel of the stroller, and a seat attachment element removably connecting a second seat in either a forward or backward position.

Thus all the independent claims have been amended as discussed in the interview.

Secondary Considerations

Objective evidence relevant to the issue of obviousness must be evaluated by Office personnel. Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966). Such evidence, sometimes referred to as “secondary considerations,” may include evidence of commercial success, long-felt but unsolved needs, failure of others, and unexpected results. The evidence may be provided in a timely manner at some other point during the prosecution.

CraftyShopper’s 10 Best Double Strollers

Enclosed with this Response is examples of awards that were won by the CITY SELECT stroller that comprises the claimed invention. The awards are directly related to the versatility of the CITY SELECT due to the invention as claimed. The claimed invention allows the stroller to be converted from a single stroller to a double stroller easily and allows the seat to be removably connected in both a forward and backward position. There is a direct nexus between the claimed invention and the commercial success of the stroller.

Consideration of the amended claims and the remarks is respectfully requested.

CONCLUSIONS

Applicants respectfully request consideration of the claims pending in the Subject Application and issuance of a Notice of Allowability. Should the Examiner have any remaining concerns, he is requested to contact the undersigned at the telephone number given below so that the concerns may be resolved without issuance of an additional Office Action.

How Innovative Products Are Chosen

Products are evaluated and judged on their innovation, marketability, trend-setting potential, appeal and usefulness. Special thanks go to the selection committee of trade media representatives and retail buyers:

- Ashlee Allen, Mama Speaks
- Nanci Gregg, Baby & Children's Product News
- Sheri Gurock, Magic Beans
- Danny Reynolds, Baby World
- Christina Vercelletto, Parenting Magazine
- Paul Banas, GreatDad.com
- Eli Gurock, Magic Beans
- Jenny Heinzen York, Kids Today
- Robin Reynolds, Baby World
- Julie Woods, Once Upon a Child

"This year, we saw even more new products, which goes to show that necessity is still the mother, and sometimes the father, of invention," commented competition judge, Paul Banas of GreatDad.com. "Each year, parents face the same challenges as they have for generations and still find new ways to address them. It's always fun to see these new ideas first hand and determine which are truly innovative." The Innovation Awards Competition started in 1989 as the Most Innovative Product Contest and has evolved through the years to a highly recognized competition. It was officially named the "Show Off" Product Competition in 1992, however in 2003 JPMA renamed the contest to the Innovation Awards to more accurately represent the focus on innovation.

10. Britax B-Ready - The

Britax B-Ready is a top rated and best selling stroller as well as one of Babble.com's Best Picks. The B-Ready convert easily from a single to a double. It is a close second to the Baby Jogger City Select (and pretty close in price) but does not have as many seating arrangements. Although it is smaller, easier to push and more maneuverable. It is one of the best double strollers as far as maneuverability.

Baby Jogger City Select Receives 2011 NAPPA Gold Award

The City Select stroller by Baby Jogger, known for its ability to convert from a single to a double stroller and its 16 possible seating arrangements, was awarded the NAPPA (National Parenting Publication Awards) coveted gold award. It's a symbol of excellence in innovation, practicality and quality that parents have come to know and trust. The NAPPA team of independent expert judges and family testers assessed the City Select among other brands in the industry and honored this customizable stroller for its design, safety features, convenience and overall quality and usefulness. This is the fourth award the City Select has won since its 2010 release.

If you haven't seen this stroller before or already know about it, you can see it at Weecycled. We still have some 2010 models left at an unbelievable price of $429.99 a $170.00 savings. It really is a great stroller for the growing family. I see all the time people buy a single travel system with their first child, then have a second child and the single stroller doesn't work for them anymore. They then have to buy a double stroller, the City Select eliminates this problem as it converts from a single to a double stroller.

Some of the features that I really like as a parent are the adjustable height handle, the large rear wheels filled with foam (eliminates flat tires), it holds all brands of car seats, lifetime warranty on the frame, easy removable seats, it folds very easily and is compact when folded.
